Q: Add dynamic fields to `wp_validate_tax_object_values` only for specific products I'm currently validating products for specific taxonomies, but I also would like to add some additional fields to the `fields_for` list. `$excerpt = get_post_field('excerpt', 'type=taxonomy', $post->ID); $content = get_post_field('content', 'type=taxonomy', $post->ID); $image = get_post_field('thumbnail', 'type=taxonomy', $post->ID); wp_validate_tax_object_values(array('excerpt' => $excerpt, 'content' => $content, 'image' => $image, 'location' => array('on' => $post->ID, 'field' => 'location',),), $post->post_type);` This is very handy, but as you can see, it will also validate any "taxonomy". Now I know that I could specify the taxonomy directly, but since there are not many products with those taxonomies that would be cumbersome. Is there any way I can modify this, such that it would dynamically add to the `fields_for` list based on whether or not the currently valid product is in a certain taxonomy? If not, is there another way that might be more effective? A: The additional information to be posted can be setup into a struct first. `$wp_tax_args = array('name' => 'tax_name', 'description' => 'tax_description', 'show_on_front' => false, 'show_in_nav_menus' => false); $args = WP_Taxonomy::get_args($post->post_type, $wp_tax_args); $post_id = isset($args['post_id'])? $args['post_id'] : $post->ID; $args = array('name' => 'custom_taxonomy_name', 'description' => 'Custom Taxonomy description', 'slug' => 'custom_`
